

Attention all Graduate Students:
Graduate Student Appreciation Week is Back!

April 27, 2009-May 1, 2009

This year the Graduate Student Assembly (GSA) is re-starting the tradition of having an annual Graduate Student Appreciation Week (GSAW). This event is held in order to help us build a community between graduate students at UMB. You see, most graduate students rarely meet anyone outside their department and therefore, this series of events will give them an opportunity to do so in many different ways. During the entire week, the GSA will provide professional development workshops, influential guest speakers, and opportunities to network with other fellow graduate students.

Building community between students is one of the core values of the University of Massachusetts Boston. The GSA aims to improve student experience by allowing students from different disciplines to meet and socialize in various settings throughout the graduate student appreciation week.

On May 1, 2009 from 12-3pm the GSA will host "Interdisciplinary Perspectives: a Graduate Student Research Showcase" where graduate students can present and be acknowledged for their work through the display of research posters. Students, faculty, and staff will be present to explore the achievements of the graduate community. Those who participate will be recognized.

Applications to participate in this event are due no later than APRIL 10th, 2009 by 5pm. Applications may be submitted via email or to the GSA mailbox located on the 3rd floor of the campus center in the Student Activities and Leadership Office. Please include the application form and an abstract of your research project of no more than 300 words.
